Source of Stimulus – someone or something that generates the stimulus

Stimulus – it is a condition that requires a response

Artifact – it can be the whole system or just the affected part of the system

Environment – the state under which the system operates when the stimulus happens

Response – what happens when the stimulus happens

Measure – it is the solution taken by the system to solve the stimulus (what should happen so it is not a failure)

Example: